Caring for your equipment.

Although your system is well designed and built to last, it still requires regular maintenance—not just cleaning or replacing the equipment, but annual servicing. Just like changing the oil in your car, your home's total comfort system needs regular maintenance to keep it operating at peak efficiency and to lower the risk of failure. Most equipment is designed to last 15 to 18 years. We increasingly see equipment failing in 7 to 10 years due to improper maintenance. Properly caring for your equipment will extend the life of your equipment.
